Headquarters regulations, Polygraph Examiners Manual, Office of Security regulations and policy concerning the use and conduct of polygraph guide the work performed by incumbents. Polygraph interviews demand a great deal of judgment, common sense, tact and discretion to accomplish desired results. All other CIA directives that apply to staff employees apply to this position.

PROPOSED RESPONSE TO QUESTION 7

- The CIA requires persons with authorized access to classified information to sign a nondisclosure agreement as a condition of access. That agreement does contain a prepublication review provision. Similar constraints are levied upon industrial contractors who are authorized access to Agency classified data. Certain exceptions to the signing of non-disclosure agreements are authorized for members of the Legislative and Judicial Branches of the Government.
- In the Sensitive Compartmented Information (SCI) arena, persons with authorized access are required to sign a non-disclosure agreement. The CIA, together with other agencies of the Executive Branch, is currently drafting a new SCI non-disclosure agreement which will include a prepublication review requirement. The Director, Information Security Oversight Office, is closely monitoring this Government-wide effort.

- ° CIA regulations closely circumscribe contacts between Agency employees and members of the media. The only Agency employees authorized access to the media without prior approval are the Director of Central Intelligence and the Deputy Director of Central Intelligence.
- Copies of applicable CIA regulations and nondisclosure agreements were made available to the National Security Council in early May 1983.
